Sixty-Seven Nazi Planes Downed by Soviets in Caucasus

Russians Shatter Attack by 1,600 Nazis Northwest of Novorossisk

LONDON, May 26 (CP).—Sixty-seven German planes were destroyed in huge air battles northeast of Novorossisk, and an attack by 1,600 enemy troops was shattered northwest of the city today in a violent eruption of fighting in the Caucasus, Moscow reported tonight.

Both German and Russian reports told of renewed fighting in the Kuban bridgehead still held by the Nazis, and a special Moscow broadcast said the sixty-seven German planes were shot down in air combats out of aerial fleets attempting massed raids against Red Army troops and objectives northeast of Novorossisk.

Russian fighters repulsed the attacks but lost twenty of their own planes, said the broadcast, recorded by The Associated Press.

The Soviet Wednesday midnight communiqué reported that an attack by two battalions of 1,600 men launched by the Germans today in the Lower Kuban River was thrown back with heavy losses to the enemy.

GERMANS CLAIM POSITIONS IMPROVED
The Germans, meanwhile, claimed they had improved their positions in the Lower Kuban district near Temyrlik, killed 400 Russians and captured 600 more. This broadcast, recorded by The Associated Press, said the Soviets had regrouped their forces, and heavier fighting was imminent.

The Germans also claimed that their planes had so stepped up activities in the Kuban area that "Soviet troop movements, according to statements made by Soviet prisoners, have to be carried on at night."

Two other German thrusts in the Rostov and Donets sectors also were shattered in sporadic outbursts of battle, and 200 Germans were killed in fighting on the Western Front, said the Wednesday midnight communiqué recorded by the Soviet radio monitor.

The Germans threw two battalions

New Zealand Minister for Army Is Dead

Rt. Hon. J. G. Coates Formerly Premier

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, May 27 (Thursday) (CP).—Rt. Hon. J. G. Coates, former Prime Minister of New Zealand, died early today.

At his death he was New Zealand Minister for the Armed Forces and War Co-ordination.

Born at Matakohe, New Zealand, in 1878, he was elected to the House of Representatives for Kaipara in 1911, and held various portfolios including Postmaster-General and Minister of Telegraphs until he took over the Premiership in 1925.

He held the leadership until 1928 and for the next three years was leader of the Opposition.

After formation of a Coalition Government, Mr. Coates served as Minister of Public Works from 1931 to 1933.

He served with New Zealand forces in the First Great War from 1917 to 1919, reaching the rank of major. He won the Military Cross and Bar.

Named War Minister in New Zealand's five-man War Cabinet in July, 1940, he almost immediately made plans to visit the United States to organize a supply of munitions for Dominion defence.

He reached California by clipper May 23, 1941, and remained in the United States for a little more than two months.

Coates visited the United States on two earlier occasions—late in 1928 en route to the British Imperial Conference in London and early the next year on his way home.

Repudiates Report On Gasoline Ration

VANCOUVER, May 26 (CP).—Commenting on a Toronto report that the value of gasoline ration coupons in Canada might soon be reduced from three to two gallons, Major P. A. Currie, regional representative of the oil controller, said today he had been authorized to say "no such statement has been made by the oil controller's office."

Major Currie said he had discussed the matter with Oil Controller G. R. Cottrill, at present in Vancouver.

Mr. Cottrill will remain in Vancouver a few days before returning to Toronto.

Meat Rations Start Today

Highlights of New Order Outlined

OTTAWA, May 26 (CP).—A Prices Board spokesman tonight outlined highlights of the new meat rationing order, which becomes effective in Canada tomorrow.

Rationed meats are beef, veal, pork, mutton and lamb, whether fresh, frozen or processed.

Meats which are not rationed are poultry and fish, as well as "fancy" meats such as heart, tongue, liver, brains, sweetbreads and kidneys, together with cooked sausage such as bologna and wieners. Also exempt are cuts of rationed meats containing 50 per cent or more of bone.

The ration amounts to roughly two pounds; the consumer gets more of cuts having little or no bone. A chart showing coupon values of various cuts is being distributed to every household and published in all daily and weekly newspapers.

No one may buy meat for consumption except by coupon, and a person buying meat for consumption may buy it only for himself and members of his household. Coupons to be used are the brown spare "A" coupons in the No. 3 ration book. The coupons are numbered in pairs, and one pair becomes good each Thursday.

Quota users, such as hotels, shall obtain the ration books of persons residing on their premises a week or longer, and shall detach two meat coupons a week.

Farmers may kill livestock for their own consumption but they are asked to turn in to their local ration boards each month coupons at the rate of one for every two pounds of meat killed and consumed in their farm homes. They need not, however, turn in more than half of each month's valid coupons.

Farmers also are permitted to supply meat from their own slaughterings to other farmers for consumption on their farms. However, farmers supplying meat to other farmers are required to collect meat coupons at the rate of one coupon for each two pounds of meat, gross weight.

GENERALS KILLED
LONDON, May 26 (CP).—A German news agency radio dispatch from Budapest, recorded by The Associated Press, said today that three Rumanian divisional generals and twenty-two brigade generals have been officially listed as killed since the start of the Russian war.

He will be the sixty-fourth recipient of the Victoria Cross, the Empire's highest military honor.

Gibson, twenty-five, was born in Simla, India, and educated in England. He was a night fighter before transferring to the Bomber Command and has 175 sorties to his credit.

Miners Killed
NEW WATERFORD, N.S., May 26 (CP).—Two miners lost their lives today and seven others were injured when three of four underground mine shafts broke out in the east section of Dominion Coal Company's No. 22 mine here, sending smoke and fumes billowing through the pit and neighboring workings.

Joseph MacKinnon, sixty-seven, a construction man, died from the effects of the fumes. Solomon Woodvine, sixty-three, a pumpman, was overcome by the smoke and was struck by a riding rake as he sought to escape.

From Europe Day by Day

THE TIMES, London
News and Comment on International Events selected from The Times daily and published in The Daily Colonist by special arrangement with The Vancouver Daily Province.

(Copyright, 1942, by Southern Cross)

LONDON, May 26.—The Anglo-Soviet Alliance signed a year ago today, says The Times' diplomatic correspondent, has proved its value and the unity of Britain, the United States and the Soviet Union is now closer than it has ever been. The treaty has proved to be a sheet anchor of Anglo-Soviet relations and the foundations of future friendship have been securely laid.

Soviet authorities have been unflinching in their work of satisfying the Russian people's desire for knowledge about their Allies and what they have done in the war.

Editorially, The Times says the triumph in Tunisia has done much to dispel the last lurking suspicions and misunderstandings about the political aims of Britain and the United States. The most inveterate British or American fears of dark, deep-seated Russian designs to subvert the social order throughout the world will hardly survive dissolution of the once-dreaded but now long-impatient Communist International.

Everywhere among Russian friends this step has been hailed as wise and opportune. Not, says The Times, is there any reason to fear a revival of Russian patriotism, so marked since the war started. Russia seeks no territorial expansion nor desires to interfere in the internal affairs of other states. Allied countries, indeed, must remain united in peace so that they may together organize security in Europe and provide for the Continent's economic prosperity.

Referring to Sir Kingsley Wood's tribute to Canada's financial aid in the war, The Times says the Dominion has become both the arsenal and leader of the United Nations. It is a proud claim that Canada's armaments are serving in every part of the world where the British Commonwealth is waging war.

Canadian sirmen shared in the glory of the master-stroke against the Mohne and Eder dams, and they are again represented in the latest shattering attack on Dortmund.

At sea, Canada's contribution is arduous and made in circumstances of unending hazard. Its visible success is the security of the Atlantic lifeline on which all else depends.

When Canada's land forces go into action they, too, will add to the military renown already won in other spheres. Canada's war effort, indeed, concludes The Times, makes a memorable record.

Allied bombers now blinding Sardinia and Sicily says The Times.

United Rubber Workers at the General Tire & Rubber Co., one of four major concerns hit by a work stoppage of 31,500 unionists, tonight voted to return to their jobs immediately. The local president, Emmett E. Harper, said the decision was reached at a membership meeting. Two thousand workers have been idle at General.

Nearly 900 Allied Bombers In Double Blow at German Arms Centre and at Italy

Duesseldorf Smashed by About 2,000 Tons of Bombs

LONDON, May 26 (AP).—The R.A.F., with the R.C.A.F. lending strong support, smashed the German arms centre of Duesseldorf with nearly 2,000 tons of explosives last night, while an armada from North Africa gave another "get-out-of-the-war" warning to Italy in a paralyzing attack eliciting cries of pain and anger from the weaker Axis partner.

A total of nearly 900 planes based in Britain and Africa struck the Axis in a violent general aerial offensive which authoritative sources said was just a foretaste of greater blows aimed at tearing out by the roots the enemy's war-making capacities.

Perhaps 500 British bombers, most of them four-engined giants packing two-ton blockbusters, left a carpet of flames to eat through cratered Duesseldorf in a saturation raid almost equalling Sunday night's record of destruction heaped on Dortmund, fifty miles away.

Returning Canadians reported the fires they set at Duesseldorf were visible seventy-five miles from the target. Sergeant Ed Griffin, Brockville, Ont., a rear gunner, and other airmen said there was "one explosion which came up in a red mass and penetrated right through the clouds."

PROBABLY FROM OIL TANKS OR GAS WORKS
Sergeant George Simson, Hants, R.C., said the explosion probably came from "oil tanks or gas works."

The Canadian raiders included Sergeant Bob Lumsair, Borden, Man.; Sergeant Duncan McMillan, Landis, Sask.; Sergeant Dave Truhe, Courtenay, B.C.; and Sergeant Paul Soluk, Edmonton.

Lumsair said "There were several good explosions which sent up bright orange flashes."

The rolling sky barrage continued today as a strong force of Allied planes sped across the English Channel toward the invasion coast.

In the Mediterranean nearly 900 Allied aircraft, spearheaded by United States heavy bombers, rocked Italy's invasion outposts of Sicily, Sardinia and Pantelleria in what was officially described as "a terrific hammering." Messina, Sicilian ferry terminus only a few miles from the Italian mainland, was a particular target.

This onslaught on the softer underbelly of Europe extended as far eastward as the Aegean Sea between Greece and Turkey, as the newly conquered Albanians allowed Allied aircraft to stretch their wings across the entire Mediterranean.

DESTROY 355 AXIS PLANES IN WEEK
Twenty-three Axis planes were shot down over Sicily yesterday out of a total bag of twenty-six enemy aircraft. This sent the Allied African command's record spiraling to 355 planes destroyed in a week at a cost of thirty-three planes—better than a 10 to 1 score.

More than five two-ton blockbusters were used.

Allies Drop Heavy Bombs On Madang
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, May 27 (Thursday) (CP).—Operation bombs were dropped on Madang, New Guinea, yesterday by raiding heavy bombers. The High Command announced today.

Madang, 350 miles northwest of the Allied-held Port Moresby, is an enemy leader base for menaced positions at Salamaua, to its south-east.

Our heavy bombers attacked the airfield and adjacent enemy installations with fragmentation and explosive bombs ranging up to 2,000 pounds," the communiqué said.

"Simultaneously, our long-range fighters strafed enemy positions. Twelve miles south of Salamaua, where Japanese and Allied troops face each other, planes also bombed and strafed the enemy."

Stormy weather for the second straight day greatly curtailed aerial activity.

At Langson, on the Kai Islands above Australia, explosions and fires were started on the enemy airbase by two-engined raiders.

At Arawe, New Britain, a big four-engined bomber on reconnaissance strafed the coastal area.

Reinforcements for Canadian Army Arrive Safely in Britain
A BRITISH PORT, May 26 (CP).—Reinforcements for the Canadian Army overseas have arrived in Britain to take their places beside Dominion troops already awaiting the opening of a European front.

Bronzed by the sun and sea breezes, Canadians from every province and representative of every branch of the armed services, disembarked here after a calm and uneventful Atlantic crossing.

The troops had been wished good speed by Defence Minister J. L. Ralston in a message read before leaving their Canadian embarkation port.

The contingent was comprised chiefly of general reinforcements for infantry and armored divisions, but auxiliary units such as artillery, ordnance, army service corps, medical corps and engineers were also represented.

The Atlantic crossing was speedy and uneventful in a calm sea and warm weather.

Sir Arthur Bomney, reception secretary to the Dominions Office, met the troops, bringing them the Government's welcome.

It was the third wartime crossing of the Atlantic for a number of lieutenants who had served overseas previously as non-commissioned officers and returned to Canada for officers' training courses.

Lieut. Cliff Chadderton, of the Winnipeg Rifles, was among this group and his comment that he could not join his unit soon enough was similar to those of most returning officers.

The former member of the Winnipeg Canadian Press staff said: "Canada is all right; but it cannot compare with England in wartime."

Auxiliary services officers organized nightly entertainments. Elton Stan, Mokey, of Vancouver, was a popular Canadian entertainer.

Officers and men had little time to be bored. Daily lifeboat drills kept them on their toes against submarine attack, while anti-aircraft guns were manned constantly.

There were a number of Canadian and Fighting French seamen in the contingent.

British Civilian Defences Never Were Knocked Out

OTTAWA, May 26 (CP).—Arthur Collins, British municipal authority, said today in an address to the conference of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities that British civilian defences were never once knocked out during the German blitz, but German civilian defences are being completely knocked out by the kind of concentrated bombing attack now being delivered by United Nations air forces on German cities.

He said the German blitz on Britain was characterized by all-night raids, with the bombing spread rather thinly. In contrast, the British raids on German cities are concentrated within a short time.

He said that these concentrated raids did greater damage to war production than the all-night raids, which sent workers back to work day after day without sleep.

In passing, Mr. Collins said he knew the late Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain well, as he was a civic official in Birmingham when Mr. Chamberlain was mayor. Mr. Chamberlain had been criticized for the Munich settlement of 1938.

"I shall be surprised, however," he said, "if some day, in his papers, there is not found something to show that Munich was essential to give us time to save ourselves."

In Coventry 70,000 houses out of 80,000 were knocked out, he continued. In Clydebank after the second raid out of 1,200 houses only ten were standing. In Portsmouth

FAVORS SOCIAL SECURITY PRINCIPLES

The conference went on record in favor of the principle of social security by passing a resolution asking the Federal Government to establish a Department of Social Security and to enact such legislation as will provide security against want for every man, woman and child in Canada, together with measures providing disease prevention and general health protection.

Other resolutions adopted urged an increase in the old age pension, with a reduction in the eligible age from seventy to sixty-five; making War-time Housing, Limited, houses available to families of servicemen in emergency cases.

Co-ordination of municipal reconstruction programmes with a national plan and Government financial assistance to municipal reconstruction projects; a Federal Government survey of the financial effect of the Dominion's war effort on municipalities, with a view to financial compensation.

Revision of a recent ruling making parents of illegitimate children ineligible for income tax exemption on account of supporting their children.

Near 900 Bombers

buster bombs per minute hurtled down on Dueseldorf, the Air Ministry said, in the biggest attack yet carried out under unfavorable weather conditions.

Thousands of incendiaries also plummeted upon the Ruhr city, the resulting fires casting a red glare on the cloud layers through which the British and Canadian bombers attacked "in very great strength"—the same official phrase used to describe the destruction showered on Dortmund.

Twenty-seven British bombers failed to return from the Dueseldorf attack which was regarded as a quick step toward realization of the long-term strategy of pounding the Axis behind its fortified walls until the enemy's war plants falter in their efforts to supply Axis armies which must face fully-equipped Allied land invaders.

Two German night fighters were shot down by the R.A.F. force, which included Halifaxes, Stirlings and Lancasters.

IN FIFTY-SECOND ATTACK ON CITY

It was the fifty-second attack on Dueseldorf, Germany's third largest inland port equipped with iron and steel works comparable to the great Krupp plants which once existed at Essen. An R.A.F. attack on December 2 was said to have left 190,000 homeless at Dueseldorf.

The Sicilian city of Messina, with in sight of the Italian mainland, was dealt two powerful separate blows by bombers of the North African and Middle Eastern stations.

Knocking down ten of forty intervening German fighters, the bombers went on to deliver what

Fraser Valley In Real Peril

Water content of the snow pack being unusually high this year and with no loss to the end of March, the Fraser Valley is definitely threatened with a flood of major proportions, according to a report given yesterday to Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands, by E. Davis, controller of water rights. The report declares:

"Since the spate during the middle of April the stream flow receded (on the Fraser) during the remainder of that month, and so far during the present month has been below aged. A gasoline tank and an enemy schooner also were set afire, the communiqué said, as well as a small sailing vessel encountered in the Aegean Sea farther east.

LOSS OF ALLIED PLANES SMALL

The loss of eleven Allied planes in all these operations was described as "remarkably small in view of the large attacking forces, and proof of superior tactics, equipment and leadership."

Rome dispatches reaching neutral Switzerland said Mussolini's newspaper Il Popolo d'Italia claimed that Prime Minister Churchill had assumed responsibility for a "war without pity" on civilians.

"Churchill will see," said the newspaper, "what will happen to the English population when exposed to super bombs recently discovered by German industrialists."

Broadcasts from Germany did not resurrect the threat of any Nazi "super bombs," appearing more concerned with Italy's immediate reaction to the Allied air punishment.

One German broadcast recorded by the Ministry of Information again referred to the "impregnable Italian defences" and said the only effect of the "war of nerves" on the Italian people "is to harden them and make them more determined to carry on the war at Germany's side until victory is won."

the contingent. Sub-Lieut. J. C. Wright, of Vancouver, was among Canadian naval officers.

Ted Davies, of Vancouver, member of the Royal Canadian Artillery, was a popular sergeant because of his professional ability to tell the ship's position by the stars. His findings were never confirmed by secretive naval men, but they were usually satisfactory to the men.

Other Westerners in the contingent included Ptes. J. J. Culver, of Fort Assiniboine, Alta.; J. D. Edstrom, of Kelowna, B.C.; H. McCractor, of New Westminster, B.C.; A. J. Bates, of Edmonton; E. K. Brown, of Viking, Alta.; R. E. I. Smith, of Radville, Sask.; N. Dutkewich, of Winnipeg; Ty L. A. Sims, of Trail, B.C., and Rifleman A. J. Heck, of Regina.

HEARTS SET ON EARLY ACTION

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, May 26 (CP).—News of the smashing United Nations' victory in Tunisia ringing in their ears and with hearts set on joining the forces they hope soon would storm the European fortress, another large contingent of Canadian, Empire and Allied fighting men sailed from here recently.

The arrival of these reinforcements for sea, air and ground forces in Britain was announced today, as they dispersed to their stations, ready and willing to strike.

A small group of six army nursing sisters and a few auxiliary officers from the Canadian Legion, Salvation Army and Knights of Columbus were included in the group.

Returning to Britain after several weeks' leave in Canada was Douglas Amaron, Canadian Press war correspondent and staff member of the London bureau. He will join the other accredited war correspondents in chronicling the activities of Canada's fighting forces when the long-awaited European offensive opens.

Two former Canadian Press men now in the services sailed with the movement. They were Lieut. Tom Fairley, of Toronto, now with Army Intelligence, and Lieut. Cliff Chaderton, of Winnipeg.

TRAINED AT GORDON HEAD

This was Chadderton's second trip across in this war. He enlisted in 1940 and went overseas, returning last year to train for his commission at the Gordon Head Officers' Training Centre.

Twenty youthful university graduates, some in uniform, and some in "civies" were on their way to Britain to join the Royal Navy as wireless specialists. They had trained in universities from coast to coast and had just recently graduated from wireless training.

Officers included Acting Captain A. S. Archibolt, Victoria, and Captain D. E. Norris, Vancouver, both attached in Army Intelligence. Another Westerner was Pte. O. K. Harper, of Nelson, B.C.

Included in the large group of airmen were ground crews, instrument makers, photographers, tradesmen and general duty men—who were anxious to get across and help the big bombers deliver devastating blows over the continent. Many of them were in the air force only four or six months and were enthused at being able to see England so soon.

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE ORDER

LONDON, May 26 (CP Cable).—Wing Cmdr. Leslie Crooks, English-born R.A.F. bombardier, who has command of an R.C.A.F. bomber squadron, has been awarded the Distinguished Service Order. Crooks already held the D.P.C. He brought back a plane riddled with cannon fire, but the crew had to jump at the English coast as it was impossible to land.

David Schofield Fights for Life

David Schofield, fifteen, badly injured two weeks ago today when his bicycle collided with an army vehicle, still is fighting a desperate battle for his life. Although he rallies occasionally, according to a report from the Royal Jubilee Hospital, it was said last night that his condition has not changed materially within the past few days. His head injuries are such that he is likely to be confined to hospital for a considerable time. His youthful stam and apparent will to live are such, however, that the boy yet may pull through. He continues to receive constant care and attention, day and night.

VICTORIA - OAK BAY - SAANICH - ESQUIMALT

With Regard to Registration of HOUSING ACCOMMODATION

In an early mail
you will receive a combined letter and form from the Real Property Administrator of The Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

The Form is to be filled out and mailed within five days of its delivery to you.

Householders in Victoria area will receive by mail a Housing Survey form. All householders are required to fill in the form giving the necessary information. These forms are to be completed and mailed within five days of delivery.

There is a serious housing shortage here and elsewhere in Canada. Many materials used in building are urgently needed for war industry, and there is no prospect of any extensive new home construction for some time. This means that all existing living space should be used to the very limit.

Surveys are being made to determine the degree of existing overcrowding—to find accurately what housing is available, and to decide upon the steps necessary to remedy the situation.

Housing accommodation data, reported by means of the above-mentioned forms, will be tabulated. Information about suitable quarters will be made available to those in need of it.

Every effort will be made to bring congenial householders and tenants together.

When you receive your Housing Survey form in the mail—read it carefully. Fill in all the information that is requested. Mail it before closing date—June 2.

NO STAMP OR ENVELOPE IS NECESSARY

This registration is required under an Order issued by The Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

While it is not compulsory for you to rent any space in your home, it is compulsory for you to complete the Housing Survey form delivered to your premises, and to mail it in accordance with the printed instructions.

CRIPPLING BLOWS

A year ago this month Herr Hitler addressed 10,000 German flyers in the Sportplatz at Berlin. That was on the eve of the enemy's second drive into Russia. At that time the cream of the original Luftwaffe had already fallen in battle, and these young men were replacements without experience on the action front. This month there has been no announced review in the Berlin stadium. Germany's third Eastern drive may be impending, but it has not yet begun. The Luftwaffe has fallen from top place in the air over Europe, and last week it lost 800 planes on three separate fronts, merely in holding the present lines. What we are watching is the qualitative, as well as the quantitative, superiority of the United Nations in the air. It is coming fast.

The Luftwaffe's losses in a recent seven-day period included 300 planes struck down over Russia, mostly in the Kuban hills; more than 300 planes destroyed in the Sicilian triangle, many of them helplessly on the ground; and approximately 200 planes cut down over the English Channel and the coastal fringe in France and the Lowlands, in open combat and on a twenty-four-hour schedule. Struck in the Ruhr by four of the heaviest bombing raids of the war, Germany in retaliation has only been able to muster twenty-five plane sorties, and these on the hit-and-run principle. Over Southern Italy, Axis machines are being forced off their own airbases one by one. On the enemy's side at present it is not even a holding war.

That, of course, will change. Whether Italy crumbles or not, Germany will fight on—because she must. Loss of initiative is an admission of the loss of the war, the blitz that was to have carried the world before it. German difficulties are redoubled. The United Nations have strength in the air, in place of weakness. They have strength at sea as they always have had. They are acquiring strength, and striking power, on land. Russia so far has carried the main brunt of the enemy's might upon land. This year it will be different. Our leaders have said so. This year there will be multiple fronts. Can the Luftwaffe hold them? It is stretched very thin now before the main battles start. It will be ridden harder when these actions open. The Russian gap is a foretaste of that, and there our blows have been crippling.

CANADA'S COAL CRISIS

In December last Mr. J. L. Isley, the Minister of Finance, said that a "grave emergency" had arisen in the field of coal production. Mr. MacKenzie King has now declared "a state of national emergency." At the time Mr. Isley spoke on the subject he alluded to the following facts:

1. That Canadian pre-war coal consumption of 27,000,000 tons had risen to 40,000,000 tons, only 18,000,000 tons of which came from Canadian mines and 22,000,000 tons from the United States.

2. That in mid-Summer 1942 production had begun to slip so badly that "unless remedial measures are effected production in 1943 will fall to 16,000,000 tons, and perhaps even less."

3. That 1943 consumption might reach 46,000,000, an increase of about 3,000,000 tons over 1942.

Thus, the Government has known the developing situation for a long time past, and yet it is only within the last few weeks that a "state of national emergency" has been proclaimed. Not very much, so far, has been done to improve the situation, save that coal miners are being given leave from the Army to go back to the mines. The crisis has been evident since last Winter, and The Ottawa Journal asks how the Government has met it? Its answer is that the Government refused to do the one thing that could avert it—by failing to take power to put men to work in the mines and stopping them from being taken from the mines to bolster figures of recruiting.

As a gesture, indicating that something was in contemplation, the Government set up an Emergency Coal Production Board. "This board," says The Journal, "had no real power. It could 'open up' new mines or 'reopen closed mines.' It could 'close small inefficient mines' and transfer their labor. It could provide financial assistance to mines unable to continue in maximum production." It couldn't do the one thing necessary, namely: put men in the mines and keep them in the mines.

That is the crux of the situation—more manpower in the collieries. It is by no means clear that this year, as during last Winter, this country will be able to fill deficiencies in its coal supply by importing from the United States. The latter country is more and more in need of its own output for its own citizens and for productive purposes in connection with its war effort. That means that Canada will be thrown back more and more on its own resources, and there is still no conclusive evidence that the shortages looming will be met by the employment of more manpower in the mines. The situation in this province is as serious as elsewhere in the country, and the problem is to be taken up anew with Ottawa by the Provincial Minister of Mines. A state of emergency exists, as the Prime Minister has proclaimed. The solution rests with Ottawa, which has authority where the redistribution of manpower is concerned. There is no major programme in progress to bring this about. The crisis cannot be met by more appeals for voluntary service in the mines.

GENERAL MONTGOMERY'S INFLUENCE

There are probably few people to whom Mr. Churchill would listen when it comes to ordering his personal habits. He is, for instance, inclined to be a law unto himself as regards his waking and sleeping hours. How his habit in this respect was broken is told by the London correspondent of The Ottawa Journal, who learned the story from an officer of General

Sir Bernard Montgomery's mess. It was on the occasion of Mr. Churchill's recent visit to Africa, and the tale is as follows:

"The General (Sir Bernard Montgomery) had always kept an iron rule of going to bed at 9.30, but in view of the Premier's presence, he felt that the occasion called for some relaxation. After cogitation, 'Monty' decided to advance the moment of retirement until 10 o'clock. Precisely as the hour struck, he leaned forward, and said: 'Prime Minister, I never stay up later than 10 o'clock. I go to bed, read a little to compose my mind, and then take a long sleep so that I shall be fresh in the morning. Now I have much to ask of you in the morning, and am very anxious that you also should be fresh to deal with me.' Mr. Churchill took a pull at his cigar and his brow corrugated. Then he broke into a boyish smile and said, 'I suppose that when one is with the Eighth Army one has to do as the Eighth Army does.' In the morning 'Monty' asked the Premier if he had slept well. Mr. Churchill replied, 'Strangely enough, I did, and I feel very fit; but, with something like a growl, I've never been sent to bed so early in my life.'"

MAYTIME

There is magic in May. It reclothes the earth in green verdure, concealing the old with the new. From the opening soil life, and life abundant, springs up in full promise of the harvest to come. Song birds know May well. They carol the sun to bed in the long twilight. They awake with the dawn to pursue their hidden mysteries in hedgerow and greenwood tree. The fields are alive with humble flowers, their upturned faces to the sun. Sharp at times, the wind carries a hundred scents from lockers that have been closed all Winter.

Like many another community, Victoria has its general and special charms in May. The general ones are those shared by all areas in the Pacific Northwest. The special charms are notable. There is the Streeb of the Hawthorn Trees, with its blossoms cascading in alternate petals of red and white. There are Chestnut-Way and Laburnum Lane. Beacon Hill is crowned in the glory of its golden-broom. The maple, the acacia and the mountain ash put forth new cuffs, airing their latest ruffles. Wistaria winds its way over many a red-brick wall. Rose bushes blush red in the stem, and prepare for the wizardry to come.

In Victoria, too, there is the magic that comes from the conjunction of land and water, the green headland with its sapphire sea. At dawn and sundown there are startling hues to catch the eye and hold it. Serene in their calm, the Olympic Mountains are veiled and unveiled a dozen times a day, setting out each time new facets of Nature's own unrivalled sculpture. White gulls sail the shoreline, or call in plaintive notes from where the tide-rip drags and drives its white-horse cavalry. It is very special magic, Maytime in Victoria.

HELP FOR FARMS

The multitudinous appeals upon a civilian population in wartime are so constant and so diversified that after successive applications they are apt to produce apathy. There is one appeal, however, which no Canadian community can afford to ignore this year. It is the cry for more help on the farms. Here, in the Greater Victoria area, there is both a genuine need, and a little degree of urgency. Berry pickers must be found, unless crops are to spoil. The question is where?

For the twenty-odd years that it has been noted as a berry-growing community, Saanich has brought its first fruits and its best fruits to Victoria. The trade that was created in Canada and abroad flowed through this community. Now urban dwellers have the opportunity of helping their rural friends, and at the same time when such help is badly needed. Will the challenge be taken up?

Saanich berry growers can use nearly everyone who volunteers in the course of the next few weeks. Boys and girls from the schools, older people who have no fixed obligations or pressing duties, anyone who can spare a day, a week or a month for the purpose, will be welcomed. A registry has been opened in the city to take names, and volunteers are being sought now. Apathy won't pick crops. Action will. It is our move now.

RADAR

Radio detecting and ranging, given the composite name of radar, now a useful weapon in war, may play a tremendous part in the arts of peace when they return. The story of electronics is of mushroom growth, and nowhere have more practical advances been made than on the side of the United Nations. It is a strange, uncanny device that directs a response from unseen objects in space, the rebound of an echo that can be translated into audible tones.

The applications of such advances are manifold, and could not even be listed here. It is obvious that radar will be used in connection with transportation and communication, particularly by sea and by air. The "soundings" of mountain ranges beneath an airplane's wheels becomes possible. The height of untrod hills, the depth of isolated valleys, the approach of aircraft one to another in fog, improved "blind" landings, its scope is without seeming end.

A wartime secret in its workings, radar is already playing a big part in the conflict. It has given to the United Nations an edge over the best that the enemy has been able so far to produce. It is the gunner's aid, and the pilot's friend. It is much more than that cannot be overhinted at. After-war and its grim needs, radar will be useful in peace. It is one of the modern geniuses of the lamp, ready to be a willing, faithful servant to man.

THE CLOUDS

From the blue night the wending columns rise in countless unguessed, break and wave and flow. Now tread the far South, or lift rounds of snow up to the white moon's hidden loveliness. Some pause in their grave wandering comrades. And turn with profound gesture vague and slow. As who would pray good for the world, but know their benediction empty as they bless.

They say that the Dead God Bill remain. Near to the rich heirs of the grief and mirth. I think they ride the calm mid-heaven, as these. In wistful, majestic melancholy train. And watch the moon, and the still-raging seas. And men, coming and going on the earth.

—Rupert Brooke

It is an easy and a vulgar thing to please the mob, and no very arduous task to astonish them. But eventually to benefit and to improve them is a work fraught with difficulty, and teeming with danger.

REDEDICATION

There is some need to remind ourselves that this is the year 1943, that the United Nations are winning the war, and that for the moment—nothing else matters. Because this is the year 1943, we need both a change of vocabulary and a rededication of the heart. Out of our vocabulary must go all of the doubts, and ifs, and buts. Into our hearts must come that encouragement which sends men forth into battle with the assurance of a fighting nation behind them. The enemy no longer is calling the tune. We are.

This is the time, surely, to get over that bad trick of looking backwards in the war to the days of our repeated defeats, because of our then unbelief. The free world has always been "unready" for war. Last time, at the roots of this conflict, it required four years to arm the world and set it going in rebuttal to those who carried a naked sword. But the world did arm, was made ready, and thrust the aggressor back to a complete and unconditional defeat.

The alarmists—with their "can happen here's"—have outlived their current usefulness. The isolationists—with their "we won't play"—never did fight on our side, and never will. The fearful—with their "what if this and what if that?"—have no place in the year 1943 upon our side. The days when freedom had real cause to shiver are past. The shivering is now being done by the enemy—and not for a single moment should we let him forget that. When we are needed now are forward looking, policy, co-operation and every available hand on the traces. We have battles to win—and won they will be, whether we help or not.

Long ago Kipling told us two parts of that story in "Big Steamers" he wrote:

For the bread that you eat and the biscuits you nibble,
The sweets that you suck and the joints that you carve,
They are brought to you daily by all big steamers,
And if anyone hinders our coming you'll starve.

That applies to the convoys that are going through to Great Britain to the face of the enemy's worst. That applies to the men in ships and dangers, who man those vessels without heroes or bluff. It is a standard of conduct for all of us to match.

We might turn to Kipling at another point for as useful and as timely a lesson. In "Batteries Out of Ammunition" he wrote:

If any mouse in the workshops,
Saw
We did because the shift kept holiday.

That was a true man speaking, and he was putting it straight. No excuses, no arguments, no rights, fancies or real, can make up for lack of ammunition where the fighting is. Each in our own way we must work in the workshops and leave the mourning to the enemy. This is the year for that, the year 1943.

There is a difference, truly, between idle optimism and work that gets things done. A wish never yet turned a single wheel. Work does. It may be work on the farm, or in the home, or at the factory, but whatever it is and wherever it is, this is the year to do it completely, thoroughly and well. Let us drop the little differences, those storm in response which harm everybody and help none. Let us turn our faces fully forward and fight now with everything we've got. Lives can be saved that way, lives the world will need in the happier times of peace. For this is 1943 and we must fight!

DIES AT BARKERVILLE

BARKERVILLE, May 26 (CP)—Malcolm McKinnon, sixty-two, who came to British Columbia from Kingston, Ont., about forty-five years ago, died suddenly yesterday. Surviving besides his widow are three daughters, Mary, Christine and Mabel, all at home.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

From The Daily Colonist of May 27, 1901.

Steamships to Call Here—Mr. Thomas Earle, M.P. telegraphed to Ottawa on Monday to ascertain definitely if the Dominion Government in the contract for the new Australian steamship lines, had made the promised stipulation that the steamships should dock at Victoria. He has received in reply a telegram from W. G. Parmelee, the Controller of Customs, stating that the ships will call, both inwards and outwards. This removes any doubt that may have arisen on the subject.

Kil Carson, the death of this celebrated frontier man is announced by telegraph. Few men have lived a more wild, daring and adventurous life, or were better known on the Pacific Coast. There are many generous deeds recorded of this strange man.

DOGS AS TRESPASSERS

Sir—Over station KIMO yesterday (Tuesday), came the news that one of America's progressive cities had passed an admirable by-law to the effect that all dogs were to be considered as trespassers if they were found on the lawns of Victory Gardens of people not said dog owners, and the owners of such trespassers were liable to a fine of $100.

Let us have a hearing, and a discussion on the above suggestions while there is yet time.

"CADDOROSAURUS"

Sir—I am sure more than one of your readers was filled with nausea and pity on reading the account, replete with details, of the unfortunate end of Caddorosaaurus in yesterday's Colonist.

The poor hapless creature already wounded (one wonders how), would in all probability if left to its own devices, have been a good deal more than a nuisance to the community. It is suggested that you make an editorial note after reading the description of the brutal treatment this creature received, one can only feel that it should be publicly recognized. People who do not want to write letters are phoning about it, but I think it would come better from you. If you have not already considered this—but no doubt you have—will you please take it up. Thank you.

THE LATE MR. ABERHART

Sir—I am an old soldier and a war worker and I knew Mr. Aberhart as an honorable gentleman. He was my religious instruction teacher for over six years and his passing moves me greatly. To me he was a combination of St. Paul, Solon and Abraham Lincoln, a man like Daniel, who had a firm purpose and who dared and was able to make it known.

He was fundamentally an evangelist. He never failed to witness for the Christ of Calvary before his audiences, a fact that caused much comment and often brought him torrents of abuse. Whatever he said of him, I declare he used his brilliant talent and energy without aim for what he considered the interests of humanity, and like Elijah and Elisha, his mantle will fall heavily upon the shoulders of Mr. Ernest C. Manning. I hope the latter will be blessed with a double portion of his spirit.

JOSEPH WILLIAM BLACKLOCK,
431 Perry Street, Victoria, B.C., May 24, 1943.

"CADDOROSAURUS"

Sir—So "Caddy" our pet for many years, has been killed! And the killer boasts of his exploit. When I read of the ramming by a power-driven boat of a poor defenceless water animal—a wounded one, at that—I felt what a mean, cowardly act it certainly was.

No doubt others would like to give expression to the same thought. Such acts of wanton cruelty deserve punishment. We condemn, and rightly so, ordinary vandalism—but such needless taking of life in such a ruthless manner should not go unpunished. What an advertisement for our tourist trade!

(MRS.) J. SWAN

AN HONOR ROLL

Sir—David Spencer, Limited, has performed a gracious and friendly act in placing the names of former employees on an "Honor Roll" under the words, "Serving King and Country With the Fighting Forces." We will please the bearers of these names (also their relatives and friends) to know they are not forgotten by the company that used to employ them.

(MRS.) G. BROTHERS,

NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE

Sir—It must be obvious to anyone who notes the serious threat, the all-too-frequent strikes, and the shortage of manpower on the farms, in the mines and forests, that all is far from well in this vital service; yet in spite of a great deal of destructive criticism of the Government's policy, there appear to be very few suggestions forthcoming which are on really sound constructive lines.

As a matter of fact, there is only one fair way to handle this situation, and that is conscription of wealth, industry and manpower. Why should we fight shy from even a consideration of this suggestion?

Every man from twenty years old and upwards, every essential industry, and all idle capital should be conscripted immediately, thus eliminating all huge profits, "cool-plus" contracts, and top-heavy salaries and retaining fees. An equal scale of wages should be set up; graded, of course, according to duties and responsibilities, and with living and separation allowances, equally and fairly worked out. Then, with a sound financial set-up—a solution to most of our greatest problems will be found in a very short while.

The above suggestion is, I know, a revolutionary one; yet it is sane, it is constructive, it will bear a great deal of examination, and it contains a solution which must be found sooner or later, or we shall perish in the mad rush now chasing on the horizon.

Let us have a hearing, and a discussion on the above suggestions while there is yet time.

RE THE KILLING OF "CADDY"

Sir—There are many who feel that the destruction of "Caddy" should bring some definite protest and it is suggested that you make an editorial note after reading the description of the brutal treatment this creature received, one can only feel that it should be publicly recognized. People who do not want to write letters are phoning about it, but I think it would come better from you. If you have not already considered this—but no doubt you have—will you please take it up. married since this war started? Surely there is no crime in these days of uncertainty and a much-needed upward trend in the birth rate.

It is no use "blinking the facts," and anything that helps the morale of the servicemen and their families is surely worthy of kindly consideration.

DOROTHY DUNBAR,
Hillbank, B.C., May 24, 1943.

THAT SUGAR RATION

Sir—If the head of the bureau that controls sugar was not someone besides being incompetent, he would have found out prior to the imposition of useless regulations, the amount of sugar at their disposal for household distribution, before the farce of bulldozing the public into the idea that they had any say so in the matter. They could have warned householders that the amount they were prepared to issue was very limited. The assumption they produced was that there was plenty in reason for everyone.

There never has been any check on the amount of sugar used in canning in peace time, that always was a personal matter and nothing whatever to do with any government. So the statement of comparison by this department is not even a clever untruth. The householder is told that no sugar will be allowed for wine making. But a prominent wine producer has bought a licence for increased production of loganberries for wine. The householder, or little fellow, is not allowed enough sugar to preserve the fruit of his own growing, but we read that the Government is to subsidize jam makers. Everything is hunky-dory for the large concerns and a bare pittance for the individual. Thus the small grower in the country has to face a big loss through rank injustice and discrimination. One wonders how long the public is going to tolerate this totalitarian complacency of our extravagantly over-staffed and very much over-paid war effort bureau.

NEVILLE K. FAIRWEATHER,
R.R. 2, Saseenon, B.C., May 25, 1943.

Three Airmen Get Flying Crosses

LONDON, May 26 (CP)—Three members of the R.A.F. who were forced to bail out during raids over Germany and were listed as missing for months, received Distinguished Flying Crosses from the King in a recent investiture.

The three were Wing Commander Harry Bufton, member of a Pathfinder Squadron, who was shot down while attacking Cologne; Squadron Leader Peter Haydon and P.O. Ivan Davies, both of whom were shot down while attacking Duisburg. All made their way back to England.

Bufton organized the escape of his entire crew, leading them from Germany to France, and then through Portugal to England. Haydon and Davies made a similar escape with five other British airmen.

Sugar for Canning

Sir—On page four of today's Colonist, you have an editorial on sugar for canning. I wish to say many citizens of Victoria and many in rural districts will appreciate this article. It sure was a revelation to me, and to many with whom I have spoken, to know about it. To think we old-timers, who have always posted all our own fruit and fruit we have to buy, to supply us during the winter months, are cut to a paltry few pounds of sugar for canning purposes, cut to half-pound per person on ration for household use, while the wine manufacturer can get 100 pounds of sugar for every 100 pounds of fruit for purpose of making wine, is the most terrible revelation I have known. It is a monstrous crime and I sure hope the Canadians make a strong fight to have this law changed. The Wartime Prices and Trade Board set a limit of half-pound per pound for canning and three-quarters pound for jam. Surely the wine-maker should have a cut in his ration for a useless and unnecessary product in this a terrible time of war.

W. T. MCGIBSON,
1264 McKenzie Street, Victoria, B.C., May 22, 1943.

Sugar for Jam

Sir—According to reports I believe the amount of sugar to be allowed for canning and jam making is ten pounds per person. I have been canning for twenty years and have tried preserving fruit without sugar, and it is not a success. It is true that it will keep, but it takes more when used and the fruit has no taste at all. Fruit and jam are essential now as they are essential in other times. They are either rationed or unobtainable. I usually put up about 200 quarts every year, so ten pounds of sugar is almost useless.

I understand that the wariness use 100 tons of sugar to 100 tons of fruit to make wine. I wonder how long the people of Canada are going to put up with such treatment, or are they going to continue to be "sheep"?

(MRS.) M. DERRYSNIRE,
Waukena, East Sooke, R.R. 1, Victoria, B.C., May 23, 1943.

FAMILIES OF SERVICEMEN

Sir—I am gratified to read in your issue of May 23 that a recent meeting of the Citizens War Services Committee a proposal was made that temporary housing facilities be provided for the families of servicemen seeking accommodation, and that a committee has been formed to consider the suggestion.

The reasons for families being united for as long as possible are very obvious and it is to be hoped that such a proposal as that mentioned in your columns will meet with the approval and support of all thinking people.

The solution to this ever-present problem is, most certainly, not for families to be separated when it is at all possible for them to be together, and one wonders if the gentlemen who suggested this a solution have ever been in this unhappy position themselves. Also, has it ever occurred to them that many of these young men they have no home of their own, as they have been a singleton, and that East had played it with the slim hope that West could quickly get on lead in triumph and return a heart for East to ruff. From declarer's point of view, he was safe as long as this ruff did not develop; he could afford to lose a club, a diamond, and a spade, since the heart king was "obviously" on side.

When the spade king did not drop on the ace, declarer did not mind; he threw down his cards with the blithe announcement, "Conceding a spade trick, finishing hearts." East thereupon claimed the two vital kings.

East claimed great credit for his brilliant effort, but he would not have succeeded against a careful expert. True, even an expert might be "wared off" the spade finesse, but after the king failed to drop on the ace, he would take some precautions against the possibility of a hoax play by East. He would lead to dummy's remaining club honor, ruff a diamond, ruff his own last club and dummy's last diamond, and then lead a spade. Granted, he would feel pretty sure that the heart king was in West's hand, but it could do no harm to throw the holder of the spade king on lead. If the holder proved to be West, the heart finesse would fail to take for the trefling; but if East had the spade king, he would have to give declarer a ruff and a discard by leading a minor suit card—or, in case he had been trying a "fast one" in hearts, would again have to lead a heart up to dummy's A-Q.

THE CONCERTINA WAS INVENTED BY AN ENGLISHMAN IN 1829.

Some of the most brilliant coups consist of convincing declarer that a key card is "right" for him, when in reality it lies "off-side."

West opened the club nine, and on and laid down the diamond ace, preparatory to leading the queen.

When the king fell, however, it was obvious that no more diamond tricks would accrue to the defenders, hence, after a scarcely perceptible hesitation, East led the ten of hearts, directly up to dummy's A-Q-J. Winning with the heart jack, declarer did exactly what East had hoped he would do. He led a low trump and went right up to the ace. His reason for declining the finesse must be apparent; he figured that the heart ten must have

From The Miami Herald: "A station wagon backing up Thursday night killed William McPhee, 501-year-old negro pedestrian, and then crashed into a porch." The late McPhee was presumably a bit too old to be a pedestrian. A small boy selling pop at a baseball game last Monday developed a nice little racket. He charged for the pop and told customers that he had no coppers, so most of them handed him one.

Requirements Exaggerated By Housewives

OTTAWA, May 26 (CP).—E. W. Rodomar, assistant deputy administrator of consumer rationing for the Prices Board, said today that Canadian housewives had "exaggerated" their 1943 requirements for canning sugar in making applications to the board.

Mr. Rodomar, speaking at the annual meeting of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, said it was decided about 100,000,000 pounds would be available, the amount available last year. Reports from the Department of Agriculture were to the effect the normal use of sugar for canning was 60,000,000 pounds.

The amount of canning sugar asked for to date was 210,000,000 pounds, he said. A family of four in Edmonton had asked for 700 pounds. A family of six somewhere else in Alberta asked for 1,500 pounds.

It had been expected 40 or 50 per cent of the population would need sugar for home canning but nearly 9,000,000 people had applied, Mr. Rodomar said.

Canadians Make Grade

Fourteen Girls In Pro Circuit

CHICAGO, May 26 (CP).—Every one of fourteen Canadian players who tried out last week for places on the All-American Girls' Softball League's four member teams made the grade and were sent today to the various towns in the circuit.

As a result of practice sessions at Wrigley Field, home of Chicago Cubs, whose owner, P. K. Wrigley, has bankrolled the league with $100,000, the fourteen Canadian girls will open play Sunday as members of the sixty-player circuit.

Three Toronto girls and two Regina players were assigned to the Rockford, Ill. team managed by Eddie Stump. Included in this group were Thelma Golden, accomplished one of softball's greatest pitchers, and two of its from Toronto, Gladys Davis, a top-notch shortstop, and Helen Nelson, a catcher. Third Baseman Millie Warwick and First Baseman Ethel McCreary, both of Regina, were also assigned to Rockford.

Racing Wm. drew Olive Bend, veteran hurler, to Kenosha, Wis., went Helen Nicol, pitcher from Edmonton, Catherine Bennett, pitcher from Regina, and Dorothy Hunter, infielder from Winnipeg. South Bend, Ind. drew Catcher May Baker, of Regina, so beautiful that League President Ken Seitz said his only fear was that "the movies would take her away from us." Others at South Bend are Pitcher Muriel Cohen and Catcher Lucille Manikan, both of Saskatoon, and left-handed hurler Doris Barr, of Winnipeg.

Noted Poloist Dies

PALM BEACH, Fla., May 26 (AP).—America's "Big Boy" of polo, the team that made the United States a power in the international game, came to an end today with the death of Lawrence Waterbury.

Last surviving member of the team which brought the prized International Challenge Cup to the United States for the first time in 1909 and kept it here through 1913, the sixty-six-year-old polo and racquet champion died last night after the death of Devereaux Milburn, another member of the famous mallet-wielding quartette.

Information Given About Parcels for Prisoners of War

The following is the latest information received from the Red Cross Enquiry Bureau at Ottawa in connection with prisoners of war:

CAPTURE PARCELS

The British Red Cross informs Canada's Overseas Commissioner that 1,468 capture parcels were dispatched to prisoners of war taken at Dieppe on the St. Bator Forbes. Geneva acknowledges the receipt of these parcels, some of which were damaged en route, but the majority were in a satisfactory condition. Of these 1,468 parcels, 1,455 were sent to Stalag 8B, 209 to Stalag 9C and 110 to Oflag 7B. Evidently some 306 additional parcels were sent by some other ship to make up the complete total of 1,774.

OFFICERS IN STALAGS

It is generally stated that "oflag" is an officers' camp and "stalag" is a camp for other ranks, but Geneva states that there are officers in Stalag Luft 1, 3 and 8B as well as in Dulag Luft.

Translation of German terms on letters from Nazi camps: Besehung, description of camp; Dulag, sorting or transfer camp; Dulag Luft, air force transfer camp; Front Stalag, camp in occupied France; Gefangennummer, P.O.W. number; Geprüft, censured; flag, camp for interned civilians; Wehrkreis, military district; Internierung, internment camp; Kommando, detachment or section main camp; Lager, camp; Mannschaften, other ranks; Marine, naval camp; Oflag, officers' camp; Stalag, camp; Stalag, base camp from which labor detachments are sent out.

INFORMATION ON PRISONERS OF WAR

1. All prisoners of war belonging to a Canadian fighting unit are reported by cable from Geneva to the Department of External Affairs, wherever the next of kin may happen to live.

2. Men belonging to a British unit who give a family address in Canada are also reported to the Department of External Affairs.

3. A man who was born in Canada but does not belong to a Canadian unit, nor has given a family address in Canada, is not reported to the Department of External Affairs but to the official office of the country to which his unit belongs, or that in which his family resides.

OFFLAG 3C OR STALAG 3B?

Prisoners transferred from other camps to Oflag 3C were apparently given new numbers for use in the camp itself, in addition to their original prisoner of war number. In setting out the address of men in Stalag 3B the original prisoner of war number should be given after the words "British Prisoner of War," and the new number should be put in brackets after the camp address.

Butchart Cup Event

In the first game of the Butchart Cup for women's tennis played on the Canadian Pacific greens, Lake Hill Club won from Victoria and Victoria West won from Burnside Club. The second game was played Tuesday on the greens of Victoria West Club and Victoria won from Burnside Club and Lake Hill Club won from Canadian Pacific Club.

The club standings are as follows, with two out of five games played:

Club	W	L	Pts.
Lake Hill	2	0	4
Victoria	1	1	2
Victoria West	1	0	2

Canadian Pacific	0	1	0

The next game will be played on the greens of Lake Hill Bowling Club next Tuesday, when Canadian Pacific Club will play against Burnside and Victoria against Victoria West.

Asks Damages for Wrongful Arrest

VANCOUVER, May 27 (CP).—The case of the Scottish piper began a new chapter today when Constable Charles Mead of the Vancouver police force received from John Sutherland a request for unstated damages for wrongful arrest.

Sutherland recently was arrested by Mead when he argued against the constable's order to cease playing his pipes on a suburban street. He was sentenced to six months on a charge of obstructing the police, and spent a month in jail before the British Columbia Bannipex Association had the conviction quashed in Court of Appeal.

Yesterday Sutherland instructed J. A. Grummett, a lawyer, to request damages from Mead. Grummett said if no steps are taken to settle the matter out of court, a writ for damages would be issued.

There's another sad angle to the case. Not only is Constable Mead a Scotman but he plays the pipes in the Vancouver Police Band.

Johnny Burling, six-year-old brother, testified his sister had been beaten often, that Stevens had put cigarette ashes in her mouth, and that his aunt had poured hot coffee in her face.

Making the best of what we have is becoming more and more necessary as well as more and more of a duty. Food Fit for Fighters Will Keep You Fit

Food is a number one munition at home and abroad.

A high degree of physical fitness and mental alertness is vital to the war effort, in the armed forces—in the factories—in the home.

The Medical Branch of the Royal Canadian Air Force has produced a motion picture, "Training Table," in sound and colour to educate the air men and the air women in the principles of what to eat to be fit.

Under the joint auspices of the Canadian Medical Association and the life insurance companies in Canada, a booklet, "What They Eat to be Fit," has been published for each member of the Air Force, setting out these principles.

In twenty colourful picture pages it condenses the results of elaborate studies carried on by nutrition experts, among the men and women of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Clearly and vividly it compares the way the aircraft is kept at top efficiency with the way the human individual may improve his fitness by eating the proper food.

This new booklet is now available to the public.

You can get your copy free from most life insurance companies in Canada or their agents.

Queen Mary Marks Birthday Quietly

LONDON, May 26 (CP).—Queen Mary quietly observed her sixtieth birthday today at the 600-acre estate near a west England village that has been her home since the war began.

The Empire sent its congratulations but save for family messages and presents and the presence of the Duchess of Gloucester and seventeen-month-old Prince William as guests, the Queen Mother was expected to spend the day amid the wartime simplicity she has person-

The Royal Family had to be content with sending messages to the Queen Mother, for she has never lost her aversion to telephones and uses them only in an emergency.

The widowed queen is devoted to walking, neighborliness and her children.

She visits factories and service camps, and shows movies in her home for soldiers and airmen. For-estry is one of her major interests, and occasionally she trims bougns with her own special saw, helping the lumberjacks who have been thinning out the trees on the estate and stacking wood to be carried to the village.

Friends say she misses London, especially its museums, shops, theatres and hospitals which she befriended—and longs to return

Early in the war she came to the capital at least once weekly—and sometimes twice. But with restricted travel she never comes now.

The first wedding to be celebrated at Piers' House, Esquimalt, was solemnized Wednesday morning by Capt. N. Calland, army chaplain, when Pte. The bride came down the stairs on the arm of Capt. T. R. Keene, who represented the O.C., Major B. Gwynne, and was given in marriage by her father. Her gown of flower-embossed white satin had long pointed sleeves and over this was draped the veil, falling from a Mary Queen of Scots headdress to form a train. She carried a white prayer book. Pte. Helen Kemp, C.W.A.C., was bridesmaid, in a pink lace frock with a floral head-dress and turquoise veil, who carried a posy of pink and white carnations. L.-Cpl. John Bruce, C.C.C.S., was groomsmen, and a group of signallers and lance-corporals formed a guard of honor. About seventy-five guests attended the wedding and reception and were welcomed by the bride's parents. C.S.M. G. B. Macaulay gave the toast to the bride. Corporal and

New Montreal Station Ready for Service

MONTREAL, May 26.—Newspapermen, press photographers and radio newscasters were today given a preview of the new Bonaventure station of the Canadian National Railways prior to the inauguration for public service of this central passenger station.

The preview was in the form of a personally conducted tour led by C. B. Brown, consulting engineer for the National Railways, and the guiding figure in the planning and execution of the work of modernizing and expanding the Montreal terminals. He was assisted by other members of the engineering staff who had worked on the job and knew the answers to every question put by an inquiring reporter.

To assess the extent of the new passenger station structure, it may be told that the average time of each group of passengers starting in the centre of the concourse and returning to the starting point was two and a half hours and it was readily agreed that a lot of ground had been covered during a period which moved steadily forward except for carefully timed halts to explain the purpose of each particular section.

While the new Bonaventure station figure largely in the picture unfolded to the newspapermen's inspection, Mr. Brown and his fellow engineers explained that what had been seen within the period of the inspection to only a portion of the work represented by the Montreal terminal. Numerous grade crossings have been eliminated, removing crossing dangers and facilitating the movement of trains. Roads have been extended, car yards accommodated developed and the vast network of tracks within the metropolitan area co-ordinated so as to provide for faster handling of freight, an imperative need for the quick movement of wartime supplies.

REPLACES OLD RAIL TERMINAL

The new Bonaventure station owes its name to old Bonaventure located on a site used as a railway terminal since 1847, in which year the Montreal & Lachine Railroad began operations to become the second completed line in Canada. First, was the Champlain & St. Lawrence in 1836, and both of these included in the composition of the Canadian National Railways. New Bonaventure possesses many advantages; it is centrally located, its entrances and exits face the four cardinal points of the compass, passenger facilities are conveniently grouped, from ticket wicket to train the route is convenient and direct. On entering the station the traveler finds himself in a concourse 350 feet in length by 104 feet in width, and within that space he can arrange for tickets, reservations, baggage, send a telegram, make inquiries, obtain a meal, purchase a smoke and a magazine, visit the barber, talk to the druggist and if needs be, arrange for a bath, either shower or tub.

Mr. Traveler will find all these things, too, and for her special benefit there is a quiet room in charge of the railway medical department, and nearby a nursery where the children may be left while mother makes her necessary travel arrangements.

Naturally Traveler's Aid occupies a prominent place and there are special rooms where traveling members of the navy army and air force can have their warrants checked and receive information and instruction. Apart from these, there are special quarters to be operated by the Canadian Legion War Service, use of traveling members of the armed forces. They will find a spot in which to store kits while exploring Montreal, and a place in which to get a snack without going to the public dining-rooms.

Immigration and customs quarters are at hand for those who travel across the border, and the examination by customs men of heavy baggage has been made easy by placing such space convenient to the baggage room.

ESCALATORS IN PLACE OF STAIRS

Access to the tracks is by stairs and escalators from the main concourse, each entrance being plainly marked with large signs and these visible guides will be supplemented by a public speaking address system to provide train information throughout concourse and the special waiting-rooms.

The level below the concourse provides for fourteen regular passenger train tracks, one for mail and express and two auxiliary tracks for storage or the assembly of special troops. Seventeen tracks in all, the largest track accommodation of any Montreal station. The station is a "through" one, being approached from the north by the double-track Mount Royal tunnel and from the south over a viaduct which provides an elevated way from Victoria Bridge and Point St. Charles, thus eliminating all grade crossings from the station approaches.

The platforms are of the high-level type, giving easy access to the car vestibules. They are so designed that in relation to stairs and escalators, travelers may reach the train passenger accommodation with the minimum of walking. The mail, express and baggage will be removed to a lower level by tractor-drawn trailers using easy-grade ramps. The longest main line tracks can accommodate a train of twenty cars should one of such length be necessary.

All train operations over the approaches and within the station area will be by electric locomotion.

Below the track level is a complete hive of railway activity, all express baggage and mail facilities being grouped in a vast structure which provides for assembling and sorting in space away from the public. This area also contains a complete garage and repair shop. Yet another level below this contains the power room and the channels for distributing necessary services, power, heat, water and drainage.

Corvette Kitchener, "Star" In Picture, Rescues Seamen

Canadian Ship Risks Reefs to Bring Aid

OTTAWA, May 26 (CP)—The Royal Canadian Navy today told how the Canadian corvette Kitchener, one of the "stars" in the motion picture "Corvettes in Action," recently saved seventy-three officers and seamen from almost certain death when their ship ran aground on a rocky coast in heavy seas.

The merchantman was in immediate danger of breaking up, the navy said. Kitchener, dispatched to look for the ship, had to avoid a reef-ridden area and manoeuvre close to shore to pick up survivors.

Except for the danger of making our way through treacherous waters, there was actually very little to it," said Kitchener's commander, Lieut.-Commander William Eward, of Toronto. "We couldn't go near the ship, and although her bows could get away they couldn't make headway against the storm."

"This was accomplished successfully, all seventy-three getting away in her own boats."

WOULD HAVE FACED TWO DANGERS

The survivors would have faced two dangers—almost equally grave—if they had not been rescued, the navy said. If they stayed aboard the merchantman they would have been lost when she broke up, and ashore high waves were breaking over rocks in such fashion that small boats could not hope to live.

H.M.C.S. Kitchener was built at St. Lawrence River yard and was commissioned June 28, 1942. During and immediately after her working-up trials she took part in the making of the movie.

Since then she has been almost constantly on patrol duty first in the North Atlantic and later in the operations leading up to and following the invasion of North Africa.

PORTABLE SENDING SET DROPPED FROM PLANE SAVES LIVES

LONDON, May 26 (CP)—A portable radio transmitter dropped from a Coastal Command plane piloted by P.O. Alfred Russell, of Tonbridge, Kent, to nineteen survivors of a ship torpedoed in the North Atlantic, provided the means whereby a Canadian destroyer was directed to their rescue, the Air Ministry News Service reported today.

It was the first time that the apparatus, described as foolproof and about the size of a home coffee grinder, had been used for this purpose. The equipment automatically sends out SOS signals when a crank is turned.

Heavy seas and bad weather prevented aircraft which had flown about 25,000 miles in an eight-day search, from picking up the men who were jammed into a simple lifeboat.

The name of the Canadian destroyer was not announced.

One Bad Break After Another Put Canadian Fighter Pilot in Cast

Plane Damaged in Take-Off, "Knocked Out" as Jumped, Rescue Efforts Delayed

OTTAWA, May 26 (CP)—Air force headquarters tonight disclosed details of the flying accident in Alaska in which Wing Cmdr. Robert Morrow, D.F.C., of Toronto, Vancouver and Ottawa, was injured about two weeks ago.

An RCAF unit in Alaska, took off on a routine patrol flight in his Kittyhawk. The aircraft failed to gain sufficient altitude and struck the top of a small hill the announcement said. Part of the landing gear was driven through the right wing and the propeller was bent by the impact.

Despite the damage to his machine, Morrow managed to keep on climbing, but the damaged propeller was causing excessive vibration. Circling back over the airfield, he realized that an attempted crash landing would endanger other aircraft parked along the landing strip. He headed his aircraft out to sea, intending to bail out over the sea shore area. Bad luck dogged him, however, and as he bailed out of his damaged plane he struck the tail, receiving spinal injuries which paralyzed his legs and knocked him unconscious.

His parachute, he believes, was flung open by the impact against the tail of his aircraft. When he regained consciousness, he was floating seaward at about 1500 feet. Before he struck the water, Morrow was able to inflate his "Mae West" and remove his flying boots.

On striking the water, his "chute" billowed out and dragged him some distance before he was able to untangle it and free himself from the harness and shroud lines. His dinghy inflated. Morrow had great difficulty in climbing into it because of his injuries.

PHILADELPHIAN WEARS CROWN

It's a long time any individual of team in Philadelphia has been on the top of the athletic world. The last time Connie Mack and his Athletics soared to the top in baseball was back in 1931 and when a Philly fighter was ruling, the roost you have to go back farther than that by a long way. However, the "Cinderella" man of the ring no longer wears his crown, for a Philadelphia took it away from him after engineering a devastating attack the other night in Madison Square Garden ring.

In a fight strictly from the heart of the jungle, Bob Montgomery of Philly, became champion of the lightweight boxing division by giving Beau Jack a terrific beating in the roaring presence of a packed house. After the first round, Beau Jack, the Georgia jumping jack, was outboxed, outpunched and outboxed as Montgomery won the decision as far away as Mount Pleasant. Jack, the wild, free swinger who hits 'em where they are but often misses 'em where they ain't, was completely outclassed by the cooler, surer Montgomery who took his time, measured his punches and soon turned Beau Jack's features into a crimson red.

The titleholder, starting with his usual rush, won the first round, but from that point Montgomery's accurate punching often had the ex-boxing half-grogy as he soaked up punch after punch—punches that rarely missed their mark. Both men after the first few rounds were bleeding from nose and mouth, Montgomery's perfect timing his complete coolness, had Beau Jack on the ragged side. They were like two eggs thrown into an electric fan. Both were badly scrambled, but Jack was a bit more on the omelette side.

FOUGHT GAMELY DESPITE DEFEAT

The champion, taking severe punishment, fought gamely while taking his heavy beating, but at times, he looked like a raw amateur against a man who knew his trade according to the experts at the ring-side. For the first time in his career Beau Jack was forced to fight in retreat. It was a battle waged with plenty of action, but Montgomery carried most of the punches. Beau Jack missed too many punches, while Bob rarely missed as he waited for his openings and turned on his fire.

ODDS AND ENDS

Remember when, nineteen years ago tomorrow, the great Suzanne Lenglen, who three years previously had reached the pinnacle of her career as a tennis player, collapsed at St. Cloud, France? Miss Lenglen turned professional two years later and then, at the age of thirty-nine, died of pernicious anemia in 1938. The famous French player won all the titles worth winning during her glamorous court career. She played in an exhibition series here at the old Willows on rink.

If local baseball officials could only save either the club managed by Hal Spindel or Alvin Strang, former Rainier players, over here for exhibition games they would attract the largest crowds in recent years to the park. I understand efforts will be made to bring both teams to the city later on in the season.

FROM HERE AND THERE

There was a terrific explosion in Pittsburgh in the vicinity of Forbes Field, home of the Pirates, yesterday afternoon. It didn't worry the citizens the least bit. In fact, they were jubilant, for those who couldn't get to the scene found out later that it was just the Buccaneers walloping the "Bums" from Brooklyn to the tune of a 12-4 score. Les Webber, former Seattle pitcher, received the worst treatment since he arrived in the majors. In the third frame he was nicked for nine runs, which was the result of six hits and a like number of free tickets to first.

Was informed yesterday that the final of the men's championship at the Uplands Golf Club will not be played this coming Sunday as expected. One finalist, Roy Stranks, has returned to the hospital, and the other, Gordon Verley, will be out of the city. The postponement is indefinite, but officials will announce the date when the boys are ready to tee.

Flyers Defeat Army In Extra Inning

Hemmenfent's Double in Tenth Gives

R.C.A.F. 6-5 Win Over Troops

R.C.A.F.	5	1	2	.600

Army	5	2	3	.400
Eagles	4	0	4	.000

Last night's score:
R.C.A.F. 6, Army 5 (ten innings).
Games this week:
Friday, 6:30—Navy vs. V.M.D.
Saturday, 2:30—R.C.A.F. vs. Navy.
Saturday, 6:30—Army vs. Eagles.

Kid "Bolder" Hemmenfent's timely double in the last half of the tenth inning with two men down and a like number on the bags, brought the Royal Canadian Air Force through to a 6-5 victory over the Army last night at Royal Athletic Park in the first overtime baseball game of the current season campaign.

Going hitless in three earlier official times, at bat, Hemmenfent came through at the crucial moment and broke up a perfectly good ball game. With two away and runners on first and third, Hemmenfent hit a high fly to right centerfield, which Carlo, Army fly shagger, failed to catch, and the ball game was over.

Victory for the Flyers boosted them into undisputed occupation of second berth, half a game ahead of the idle Navy club while the soldiers dropped down the standings to fourth place, half a game back of the blue-jackets.

Army showed in front twice and as late as the ninth inning came from behind to knot the score before the Flyers finally won the thriller in the last half of the extra inning.

Soldiers registered a slugger in the first session and the R.C.A.F. tied up the ball game in their half of the first frame. Troops pulled over a pair of runs in the third to move ahead, 3-1, but the Flyers went them two better and moved ahead, 5-3, in their half of the same inning.

ARMY TIES UP GAME IN THE NINTH INNING
Next run of the ball game came in the sixth, with the soldiers adding the tally and slicing the margin to a single run. In the ninth, the troops pushed over another marker and knotted the score at 5-5. Flyers failed to score in their half of the frame.

Army relied on order in the first of the tenth, and then with two men down and runners on first and third Hemmenfent laced out the two-bagger that brought victory to the Flyers and defeat to the soldiers.

Gerry Ray worked on the slab for the winners and heaved nine ball. He gave up six base hits, but kept them far apart. He fanned six and issued a like number of free trips to the initial sack.

Gerry Whitney, doing the heavy work for the troops, bumped into trouble in the third frame when the Flyers got to his offerings for four safeties and four runs. Apart from this one session, Whitney looked good and like Ray, his opponent on the mound, pitched no-hit ball in five of the ten frames. He fanned seven and gave up two walks.

Ray Reinger, missing second base for the soldiers, paced the batters, poking out two safeties in four trips to the plate.

Victoria Machinery Depot, undefeated leaders, and the Navy will return to the Caledonia Avenue ball yard tomorrow evening to hook up for the second time this season. Shipyard workers defeated the blue-jackets, 4-6, in the first meeting.

English See First Grid Game in Quarter Century

For the first time in twenty-five years London witnesses an American football game. A crowd of 25,000 was on hand to cheer the players, made up of United States Army men. In this photo, Cpl. Frank A. Fenton, No. 13, Sunbury, Pa., is brought down by one of the tuckers. British sports writers found American football "bewilderingly complex."

Dodgers Roughly Treated and Lose To Pirates, 17-4

Suffer Worst Defeat of Season—Braves Nose Out Cards, 4-3

PITTSBURGH, May 26 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates plastered a 17-4 defeat on Brooklyn Dodgers today to awaken rudely the National League leaders to the dangers they face on their first Western tour of the season.

There never was anything resembling a contest to the affair. The Pirates scored a run in the first inning off Max Macon, knocked him out with a five-run explosion in the second stanza, and then turned the game into a farce in the third with nine runs off Les Webber after two were out.

In their two big innings the Pirates sent twenty-six batters to the plate, fifteen of them in the third when Webber gave six hits and six walks.
Vince DiMaggio hit a homer with one on in the second inning and other with two aboard in the third to lead Pittsburgh's attack which totaled sixteen hits.

Fred Fitzsimmons went to the mound for Brooklyn at the start of the fourth and checked the Pirates till the seventh when rookie Tommy O'Brien tripped for two final runs and was thrown out at the plate trying to make his hit a homer.

Wally Hebert, who was a pitcher for St. Louis Browns ten years ago and came back from the minors this Spring, coasted to his second victory, yielding twelve hits.
R. H. E. Brooklyn—602,000, 110—4, 12, 3. Pittsburgh—139,000, 024—17, 18, 0.

Batteries—Macon, Webber. (2) Fitzsimmons (4) and Owen Bragan (6), Hebert and Lopez.

BRAVES BEAT CARDS
ST. LOUIS, May 26 (AP)—Mort Cooper picked the wrong man to pitch to in the eleventh inning tonight, and Boston Braves clipped the Cardinals 4-3, on Charley Workman's single. Al Javery held the Cards to six hits.

Cooper gave up a hit to Eddie Joost to open the Braves' half of the eleventh and, with two men down and Joost on third, elected to walk Johnny McCarthy to get at Workman.

Lou Klein and Walker Cooper both clouded home runs for the Cards, the former in the first, the latter in the sixth, tying the score after the Braves had taken the lead with a three-run outburst in the fifth.

That fifth inning was really the pay-off, for Walker Cooper's error on Stan Musial's throw allowed the third run to reach second, all set for a scoring single by Joost. Two singles and a double counted for the first run.
R. H. E. Boston—600,030, 000—4, 10, 3. St. Louis—100,100, 000—3, 4, 1.

Batteries—Javery and Poland; M. Cooper and W. Cooper.
GIANTS DOWN CUBS
CHICAGO, May 26 (AP)—The dramatic return of Lou Nuvola to Chicago Cubs line-up after a sixty-day hiatus was a fluke today as the Mad Russian sent batters in four trips to the plate, the Cubs saw their two-game winning streak ended 4-2 by New York Giants, and only 4,638 fans entered Wrigley Field to hail their hero.

Nuvola, plummeted immediately into the line-up by Manager Jimmy Wilson without benefit of Spring conditioning other than a few semipro appearances on the West Coast, was the only one of the Cub regulars who didn't get a safety off Bill Latham, now possessor of four victories and only two defeats for the second division New Yorkers, kept the Chicagoans hitless effectively scattered.

Paul Derringer took his fourth defeat in five games as the Giants hopped on the ex-Cincinnati pitcher for all their runs in the first three innings.

Nuvola's part in the day's battling efforts consisted of a group-out in second base in the second inning with no one on base, a pop fly to short in the fourth with a lead-mate on second and one out, a fly to deep center in the sixth with two out and men on first and third, and a fly to deep right in the eighth with two out and a man on second.
R. H. E. New York—321,000, 000—4—12, 0. Chicago—100,100, 0—2, 1, 1.

Batteries—Latham and Lombard; Derringer, Barrett (8) and Todd.
CINCY REDS WIN
CINCINNATI, May 26 (AP)—Eddie Miller singled Bucky Walters home after two were out in the ninth to lead the Cincinnati Reds to a 1-0 National League victory over Philadelphia Phillies.

Young Charlie Fuchs held the Reds to four hits and was within an out of finishing the ninth clean when Walters' hit to Dannie Murtough at second, Murtough knocked it down, but Bucky got to first with a single. Then, as Fuchs worked on Lonnie Frey, Walters broke for second. Frey then was given an intentional pass and Miller caught a two-two pitch for a sharp hit to left field. Walters scored handsily to end the game.
R. H. E. Philadelphia—600,000, 000—0, 4, 2. Cincinnati—100,000, 001—1, 6, 0.

Batteries—Fuchs and Livingston; Walters and Mueller.
AMERICAN LEAGUE
WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP)—Dutch Leonard, veteran knuckleballer, blanked St. Louis—four hits as Washington defeated the Browns 1-0 before 13,500 fans tonight.

Leonard, bested another knuckleball artist, Johnny Niggeling, to score his fourth victory of the season against two losses. Dutch registered eight strikeouts and yielded one walk.

The lone run of the game came in the sixth when Jake Early singled, went to second on Leonard's one-baser and scored on Stan Spencer's lone single to center.
R. H. E. St. Louis—000,000, 000—0, 4, 0. Washington—600,001, 000—1, 3, 3.

Batteries—Niggeling, Coaster (8) and Perrell; Leonard and Early.

THERE was once a man who knew one good story, or at least what he thought was one good story, though as we never heard it we can offer no opinion. But he was far from being an experienced raconteur, had no gift for extemporization, and could easily be stampeded out of what with he had when called upon to make a speech. The story, it seems, had something to do with a shot and nervous and embarrassed though he was, once he got launched on the story of the shot he felt more at ease and was confident that he would make a hit. So one evening after dinner he was suddenly called upon to say something to the company. He got to his feet and stammered a few incoherent words. Then he suddenly braced himself and shouted: "Bang! Bang! Was that a shot I heard? Well, it reminds me of a story..."

Sports Round-Up

By RICH FOLLETTON, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer
NEW YORK, May 26 (AP) — The democratic game of tennis... sounds kind of funny, doesn't it? But that's one of the things they try to impress on you at the United States Lawn Tennis Association offices these days. "Tennis," says President Holcombe Ward, "has come a long way since the old Newport days." What Ward wants is for more kids to learn the game, no matter which side of the fence they live on. "We're trying to encourage public parks play and to persuade high schools to engage competent coaches, not only for teams but to teach the boys and girls the right way to hit the ball and how to place their feet. About 1,000 high schools have such coaches."

Esquimalt Meet Held

Annual Sports Well Attended

Students from Lampson Street and Esquimalt High Schools took part in the fifteenth annual municipal sports held yesterday afternoon at Bullen's Park. Staged under the direction of the council and school board the meet was a big success. Mild, despite quite a breeze at times.

In quick order under a capable committee. During the afternoon, May Queen Joy Pusey and her attendants arrived at the park and were given a big ovation by the large crowd of parents, members of the services, former students and the school children present. Her attendants were Catherine Dixon, Carmen Hawkins, Peggy Robinson, Ruby Sims, Alice Burke and Jacqueline Walker.

C.P.R. President Ends Four-Day Stay in Victoria

Originally scheduled to spend Sunday, Monday and Tuesday in Victoria, President D. C. Coleman and directors and executives of the Canadian Pacific Railway spent an additional day here, leaving last night instead of midnight Tuesday.

For the Mainland, Sunday and the Victoria Day holiday gave Mr. Coleman a welcome opportunity to rest, and the added business day enabled him to make a more extensive survey of the company's interests on Vancouver Island.

Mr. Coleman and members of his party were entertained Tuesday night at a dinner given at Government House by His Honor the Lieut.

Governor. Twenty-eight in all were present.

Arriving in Vancouver this morning, the party will leave at 11 o'clock for Penticton, Trail, Nelson and Lethbridge. While in the Kootenays, the party will inspect the enlarged facilities of the West Kootenay Light & Power Company, from which Consolidated Mining & Smelting plants at Trail derive their power.

Inspection will be made in Calgary of the Ogden shops, now engaged in armament production.

From Edmonton, headquarters of the Canadian Pacific Air Lines, the party will visit briefly a number of points in Northern Alberta.

During his stay in Victoria, Mr. Coleman took stock of the several military and naval establishments in this area and surveyed the local and district properties of his own company, conferring also with resident officials of the company.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

A NEW SUBSTANCE USED TO STOP BLEEDING

For a number of years I was medical examiner for an athletic commission and experimented with various chemicals in an effort to discover a substance that would stop bleeding in the one minute between the rounds of a boxing bout. A slight cut often makes it necessary for the referee to stop the bout. I was unsuccessful in my search for such a remedy.

At one time Mousell's solution—an iron preparation—was used by trainers, but athletic commissions properly prohibited the use of this solution as it left ugly scar tissue which was broken down in following bouts. The use of adrenalin-epinephrine became popular as it is sometimes effective in stopping bleeding but not sufficiently so for many cuts.

Nature has provided a substance in the blood that helps it to clot, but with a small blood vessel cut partly across the blood does not get opportunity for properly clotting and so some "o-oxide" substance must be used.

I have spoken before of the experiments by which the clotting substance—thrombin—from the blood of animals was being used to stop bleeding.

In the American Journal of Medical Sciences, Dr. Eugene L. Lomer, Harriet MacDonald, Maxwell Finland, and F. H. L. Taylor, Harvard University, report their study of stopping bleeding from small wounds caused by injury in normal individuals by the use of rabbit thrombin.

A square of filter paper moistened by salt solution was applied to the wound and sprinkled with a small amount of dry rabbit thrombin. Even in nine cases of natural "bleeders" (hemophiliacs) and in two cases of high blood pressure causing bleeding from the nose, the bleeding was stopped immediately in ten of the eleven by applying the rabbit thrombin. In nine of these cases, bleeding could not be stopped by the usual methods—pressure, bandaging and application of adrenalin. Will be available for general use.

Mousell's solution and animal muscle.

In the one case where rabbit thrombin was not fully effective, an application of the rabbit thrombin on each of the two following days produced immediate and complete stoppage of the bleeding.

It is gratifying to know that this effective method of stopping bleeding produces no ill effects. However, its application must be used cautiously and further investigations are being carried out.
